Parting Notes From Your Retiring President

As this long, busy year ends, I look with gratitude to the members of our board who gave so generously of their time and ability to keep our society running smoothly. Our two vice presidents shared many of the duties usually falling to the president, making it possible for me to finish the year after the resignation of Bud Henning in August. Betty Olds faithfully attended BAAC meetings and Audubon Canyon Ranch Board of Directors meetings for me, as well as chairing the Long-Range Planning Committee. Dora Conrath represented us at the Asilomar Western Regional Conference and handled most ably the volunteer hosting schedule for ACR.

Our two largest committees, Conservation and Field Trips, again handled mountains of work. We all owe sincere thanks to Shirley Taylor for her dedication in keeping us informed and active in conservation and to Tom Williams for his continuing research and promotion of wetland acquisition. With his enlistment of help from the Nature Conservancy, our hopes are becoming more real. We are committed to the republishing of the Guy McCaskie and Paul De Benedictis Birds of Northern California, and to the production and sale of GGAS patches and decals to establish a nest-egg for this purpose. Whole-hearted thanks to all who worked with these two dedicated conservationists.

Marie Mans, chairing the large Field Trips Committee, wins the admiration of all. Over 100 informative, well-planned field trips were offered our members and friends. Peter White ably handled 11 pelagic trips, using 15 boats, by far the largest number ever undertaken in one year. Particularly exciting and rewarding were the whale study trips coordinated with the meeting program on whales in January. Harriet Fraser has won a happy following with her programs of mini-trips for seniors; while Pat Triggs, with her many years of experience, was the master-planner of our many bus trips. These were great adventures, ones we plan to continue as an ecologically preferable and socially "fun" method of expanding our horizons. To them, and to Peter Allen, Nick Story, Gene Hull and Joe Morlan, many thanks from the board and the hundreds of "field trippers" they satisfied so well.

We are particularly proud of our expanding educational program. Begun by Trix Machlis with the cooperation of the Albany Adult School, we now sponsor courses in Ornithology at the Piedmont Adult School and the San Francisco Community Colleges as well. Joe Morlan, an experienced and competent field ornithologist, is handling capacity enrollment in all these courses. Our warmest thanks to him and congratulations, too, for continuing to attract and hold so many students. Our thanks also to Ida Geary for her marvelous Plant Printing courses, now sponsored by GGAS and taught at Fort Point, in the GGNRA.

How can we ever thank Lenore Johnsen, former corresponding secretary, for the hundreds of letters she wrote or Robert Johnsen for the effort of years spent straightening out our finances and keeping them that way. He has at last won retirement with our eternal thanks only to have his wife take over the presidency. May there be no more headaches for the Johnsens!

Our thanks to Barry Spitz as finance chairman for trying (and succeeding) to keep us on the straight and narrow with our spending. Thanks also to Naomi Svenningsen for all the hours she spent on minutes, always precise and accurate and on time; to our directors Carpenter, Johnson, Love, Picher, Pierson and Spitz; to Membership Chairman Robert O'Brien, for keeping us on top in the nation with 5,400 members; to our two Publications Editors, Clarence Smith and Sharon Sauve, who gave us The Gull and special thanks, too, to Phila Witherell, who rescued her former brainchild and returned to editing The Gull when Sharon was called away this spring.

Peter White served us doubly, arranging our many crowd-drawing meeting programs, as well as the boat trips; while Bonnie Smith again took over the responsibility of our June banquet. Bouquets to you both!

We cannot close without another special thank you to Joe Morlan for his handling of our now famous Rare Bird Alert. This has a reputation for being the best alert in the country and is widely used by the whole birding fraternity. We feel it has greatly increased the interest of our own members in field study and helped spread our influence in conservation. Thanks to Don Roberson for handling the detailed data on bird observations in The Gull so well. This is a valuable and accurate record. Once again, thanks to the organizers of our great Christmas Count — Dick Dean, Dick Erickson, Doug Gomke and Will Lawson. Near the top in the nation again in both number of species (179) and number of participants (223).

Then to wrap it all up, our office staff has served us unstintingly. Lisa Johnsen has finished organizing our office library and given many hours of secretarial help, while Vera Paraschak, "Ms. Audubon" herself, has been more than an office manager. She's our life-line to all our members and the public. My warmest, personal thanks for running our office and bailing us all out in so many ways, all year long.

And one last note, my thanks to all of you on the board and in the membership for putting up with me. Serving you has been a rewarding experience.

NEW EDITOR

The Gull gains a new editor with this combined issue. Kathy Forte, a native Californian, is presently a freelance writer who recently had two short stories published in a local magazine. A graduate of the California State University at Fullerton with a B.A. in Communications, Kathy has three years professional experience in the media. She reported, wrote, edited and photographed the news for a Southern California newspaper. She has also edited aerospace material and daily reports concerning the construction industry. Some of her published works include such topics as the sociological implications of large families, the financial crisis in public schools and mass transit in Orange County.

FALL BOAT TRIP

A few spaces are still open for the GGAS sponsored pelagic trips scheduled for September 11 and October 17. The boats will leave Monterey at 8 a.m. and will return at 3 p.m. The fare is $12.00 per person

"Past trips have produced albatross; Sooty, New Zealand and Pink-footed Shearwater; Ashy and Black Petrel; Jaeger; Auklets; Murrelets and several species of marine mammals," said Peter White, organizer of the event.

Interested persons should send check (payable to Golden Gate Audubon Society) and self-addressed, stamped envelope to Golden Gate Audubon Society, Boat Trips, 2718 Telegraph Avenue, #206, Berkeley, Calif. 94705. Details on where to meet will be sent as well as acknowledgement of payment.

MAY AND EARLY JUNE OBSERVATIONS

May was filled with observations of pelagic winterers still lingering until summer. Northern Fulmars, Black-legged Kittiwakes and Sabine's Gulls were seen by observers on offshore boat trips. A several hour count from Pigeon Point, San Mateo Co. 15 May produced eight Fulmars, 264 Kittiwakes and 127 Sabine's Gulls (BS). Kittiwakes were found through the end of the period in coastal estuaries such as Bolinas and Rodeo Lagoons. Singles were further inland at the Bay Bridge Toll Plaza (BBTP) 14 & 25 May and three were there 6 June (DE), while another was at the Berkeley pier that day (JR) and a dead bird was found on Bay Farm Island 5 June (LF). An excellent incursion of Red Phalarope occurred along the coast 5-19 May, with birds as far inland as the Berkeley Aquatic Park and up to 22 on Lake Merced. Through better coverage of the vagrant traps on Pt. Reyes we saw the late-May/early-June wave of eastern warblers that we had known annually on the Farallons (unfortunately, no Farallon records were received for this report). Fifteen such warblers of ten species were found on the coast.

A Yellow-billed Loon spotted in Monterey Bay 28 April was in breeding plumage, almost unknown in California waters as summer records reported winter-plumaged individuals (RS). Organized boat trips off San Francisco 9 May and Monterey 7 June each had about 30 Black-footed Albatross, but a fisherman photographed a Laysan Albatross near the Farallons 8 May (fide JM). The ability of this prize to elude the chartered tours is uncanny, since fishermen report it with some regularity throughout the year. Fork-tailed Storm-Petrels, which breed off extreme northwestern California but have also been elusive for years, have been observed. One was near the Farallons 9 May (JM, RD et al) and two were in Monterey Bay 7 June (TC, JL et al). An Ashy Storm-Petrel, Farallon nesters seldom seen at sea in spring, were seen from shore at Pigeon Pt. 5 May (BS). Could they also nest on the islands along the San Mateo coast? A Green Heron, uncommon around the Bay, was at Lake Merced 17 May (BH). An adult Little Blue Heron was seen by many in Bolinas Lagoon 11-24 May. One has been present in a heronry on the San Mateo coast for several years and this might have been the same bird wandering afield. One or more apparent Little Blue X Snowy Egret hybrids have been found in past years in our area. An albino gull, possibly a Herring, intrigued observers on Bay Farm Island 5 June (LF, PR). Only the second summer record of the Thayer's Gull was recorded at the BBTP 3 June (DE). Three Arctic Terns, virtually unknown in spring, were reported from Monterey Bay 7 June (JL). Observers should be aware that the field guides are of little value in identifying Common-Arctic Terns. (See instead California Birds, Vol. 1, No. 1 in the larger libraries.) Top counts of the endangered California race of the Least Tern were 15 at BBTP 1 May (DE) and 24 on Bay Farm Island 5 June (LF, PR). It is hoped they can find an undisturbed area to nest at this northern limit of their range. An Elegant Tern at the BBTP 15 May was very early (SL), normally these terns are postbreeding arrivals. Another unusual sighting was a Black Tern in Alameda 25 May (fide JL). An Ancient Murrelet in Monterey Bay 7 June was quite late (TC, JL). Though Tufted Puffins nest commonly on the Farallons they are not often seen elsewhere, thus one in Monterey Bay 7 June (TC, JL) and two seen flying past Bodega head 13 June (JM, DG) were noteworthy.

A Black-chinned Hummingbird 1 May at Pt. Lobos was unusual on the coast, but the species is fairly common in the nearby Santa Lucia Mountains (MH, PC). Of greater interest was a male Costa's Hummingbird captured at Bolinas 3 June (PRBO), not usually found west of the Coast Ranges. Recently active birders have become much more proficient in identifying non-singing Empidonax, even in migration. Thus the migration pattern of some of these birds through our area is becoming clearer. Hammond's appear to be most common with Dusky Flycatchers also to be expected. The Gray Flycatcher is the scarcest of the trio, but still a regular sighting. This spring's reports follow that pattern. Single Hammond's were at Coyote Hills 30 April (SFB) and 4 May (DE) and on Mt. Diablo 15 May (JM), while a Dusky was observed at Coyote Hills 4 May (DE). A single Gray Flycatcher was there 30 April (SFB). A Sage Thrasher 25 May at Princeton, San Mateo Co. was far from its normal haunts east of the Sierras (PM, BS). A Phainopepla was in residential Mt. View 19 May (FR); they nest in small numbers in the Coast Ranges but seldom stray toward the coast. A Solitary Vireo at Briones Regional Park 12 June may have been in one of the few local breeding areas near the Bay (JM).

But now, my favorite subject—eastern warblers in California. While some (Black-and-white, American Redstart) may be regular migrants in small numbers (and most certainly are in eastern Calif.), most on the coast fit the definition of true vagrants. While I received my fill in Death Valley for several weeks, others "hit" Pt. Reyes (spots listed are there except where otherwise noted) and were well rewarded. Five Black-and-whites were recorded: one 21 May at Pt. Reyes (BSO), singles banded 27 May and 2 June at Bolinas (PRBO), and singing males at the Fish Docks 5-7 June (JM, SL et al) and on the UC Berkeley campus 7 June (SFB). A Tennessee Warbler was noted on Pt. Reyes 22 May (JM). A Northern Parula, one of the few vagrants that is more common in spring than in fall, was at Bolinas 20 May (PRBO). An immature male Magnolia Warbler at Drake's Beach 6-8 June (SFB, JM, SL et al) was only the 15th spring record for California (but the 11th for Northern Calif.). A male Blackburnian Warbler 12 June at the Fish Docks (LCB, RS, SM, GG) was better yet, the 9th spring California record and only the second in Northern California away from the Farallons. A female Bay-breasted Warbler at Drake's Beach 6-7 June was the 21st Calif. spring record (NS, JM, SL et al). Blackpoll Warblers are also very rare in spring, but singles came from Glen Ellen, Sonoma Co. 30 May (fide JM) and Drake's Beach 6-7 June (JM, SFB, SL). A singing Ovenbird, more common but as hard to find, was at the Telephone Station 6 June (SFB, JM). American Redstart reports were singles at the Fish Docks 11 June (W&AG), at Bolinas 12 June (PRBO) and at Nunes 13 June (SFB, SL).

Several Yellow-headed Blackbirds, unusual in the Bay area, were at Coyote Hills 30 April-2 May (SFB, JM). Rose-breasted Grosbeaks seemed to have a banner year throughout California this spring. Our area had single males in San Francisco in late May (fide DE), at Drake's Beach 5 June (B&HL), and in residential Piedmont 10 June (fide GP) and a female on the latter date at Nunes (DE, JM). A singing male Indigo Bunting remained at the same spot on the Limantour road in Pt. Reyes NS 6-13 June (KY et al). Singing birds have been noted last summer and breeding (or interbreeding with Lazuli) should be checked. A Blue Grosbeak in Santa Rosa in late May was only the second Sonoma Co. record (GB).

NOTES

1. Several material items which appear on the Society's financial statements have been omitted from the Budget. These are self-supporting items, with receipts closely matching expenditures. These items included gifts and donations specified as to purpose, the annual dinner, and field and pelagic trips.

2. Membership dues are assumed to be the same as in the previous fiscal year. This may be conservative, in that membership revenues have risen 15.8% and 9.6% in the last two years, respectively.

3. Since revenues exceeded expenditures by $4,788 in the fiscal year ended May 31, 1976, we feel it is prudent and proper to budget current year expenditures in excess of revenues by $3,755. The balance of the surplus is to be transferred to the Society's endowment fund.
